Sample Question 1

Describe an interesting job that you know.

You should say:

what the job is

what kind of education or qualities are needed to get this job

and explain why you think this job is interesting.

Sample Answer 1

There are many interesting jobs, but the first thing that comes to mind is writer. There are many types of writers, such as novelists and screenwriters. Both these types of writers produce creative work with their own ideas.

Surprisingly, none of these jobs requires a specific education. Some writers can make it with just natural talent. In Korea, however, many people study Korean literature or creative writing to be a writer. Whether they have formal education or natural talent, all writers must have observational skills and diverse experiences.

I think writing is a very interesting job for several reasons. First, the work of writers is widely read. So, they can share their ideas and cause emotional reactions in so many people. I think writing is really special because most people don't get to do that. I also think it's great that they can work wherever and whenever they want to. Unlike most workers who work 9-to-5 in an office, writers can do their work anywhere at any time.
